

Aim - Design mobile interfaces for given problem

Theory -

More than ever, people are engaging with their phones in crucial moments

There are many things to consider when designing for mobile

→ Minimize cognitive load

when an app provides too much information at once, it might overwhelm the user and make them abandon the task.

→ Decluttering

It's essential to get rid of anything in ~~middle~~ mobile design that ~~is~~ isn't absolutely necessary because reducing clutter will improve comprehension

→ Offered tasks

Look alternatives for anything in the design that requires user effort

→ Break tasks

If a task requires a lot of steps and actions from the user's side, it's better to divide such tasks into number of subtasks

Teacher's Sign.: _____

- Minimize user-input short forms, input masks, autocomplete, dynamic validation keyboard customization
- Anticipate users needs
Proactively look for steps in the user journey where users might need help.
- Use visual weight to convey importance
- Avoid jargon
- Provide meaningful error messages

Conclusion - Mobile UI was implemented for chosen problem statement

Hard to judge whether these sides were good because we were grossed out by the melted styrofoam and didn't want to eat it for fear of getting sick.
